THE BREAKING UP OF THE REBEL ARMIES.—The Southern Confederacy, published at Macon Georgia, makes a significant admission as to the way in which the rebel armies are falling to pieces and melting away under the demoralizing influence of their defeats. It says:

"It is mortifying to our pride to know that such is the case, but we can't deny the fact that bands of stragglers and deserters infest every city, town and village in the State. They are upon every highway through the country, and wherever they go are committing the most wanton acts of destruction and abuse of property ever known. They are tearing down fences and turning cattle upon the fields of corn now almost matured, burning fence rails, killing stock, tearing up potato patches, and in fact, doing everything that is mean and destructive."

No wonder that the rebels and their sympathizers cry out for a "cessation of hostilities." Of the two, just at the present moment, indeed, they appear to hanker after cessation rather than secession. They have evidently had a surfeit of the latter, however stiffly they may deny it, and strive to keep a straight face. But that foul and indigestible load must come off their stomachs ere they can really relish and appreciate the blessings of a genuine peace. —Sacramento Bee.

HUMORS OF THE WAR—MOONSHINE.—An officer in Georgia writes:

One night Gen. —— was out on the line, and observed a light on the mountain opposite. Thinking it was the signal-light of the enemy, he remarked to his artillery officer that a hole could easily be put through it. Whereupon the officer, turning to the coporal in charge of the gun, said:

'Corporal, do you see that light?'

'Yes, sir.'

'Put a hole through it,' ordered the Captain.

The Corporal sighted the gun, and when all was ready he looked up and said:

'Captain, that's the moon.'

'Don't care for that,' was the Captain's ready response; 'put a hole through it anyhow.'

☞ "Save me first—I'm the Captain!" is said to have been the exclamation or supplication of Semmes, to the men in the Deerhound's boats who were picking up those who had jumped overboard from the sinking Alabama. The words call to mind the saying of the Captain of a canal boat on Tonawanda Creek. His craft had sunk, and he and his crew were floundering in the water. "Save me! Save me!" he shouted to the spectators on the tow path; "I'm the Captain of the Pollywog and have the papers in my hat."—Ex.

☞ A lady of somewhat dignified demeanor, having had her way, said to an urchin in the street, "Boy, I want to go to Beaver street." "Wall, marm," replied the boy, coolly, walking off, "why don't you go there, then?"

The Daily Union Vedette.

FRIDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 2, 1864.

The News.

The news by telegraph is of a nature than which nothing could be more encouraging. Grant's army is, to be sure, nominally in statu quo, but it is very evident that it is intended soon to make a decisive movement on the part of the Union forces there, and it is, if possible, still more evident that the results of the recent movement of Sherman will be such as not merely to encourage the hearts of Union men everywhere, but also to strike the so-called Southern Confederacy such a blow as will cause the rebels still further to hide their diminished heads in shame and confusion at the meagre results of the hard struggle they have so long waged for a bad cause.

All the news that we receive by way of extracts from the Southern papers, tells about the same tale of despondency in regard to the final success of their cause, and of inability to prosecute the struggle, while it is very evident that the news of the election of Lincoln as President, which the Southern people, misled as they have been by lying reports copied in their papers from the Copperhead sheets of the North, were by no means prepared for, and which, as is there well understood, strikes the death knell upon their hopes of success, has been by the people received in such a way as will for the future preclude any very active efforts for the purpose of carrying out the views of the leaders in rebellion, and in short, the thing is now in such position that however much may be the desire (which we suppose to be as rampant as ever in the minds of the leaders) the people are neither by the encouragement of the past two years, nor by the prospects presented in future, likely to find themselves very strongly invited to a continuance of the struggle heretofore proving so fruitless.

The European news is also of a tenor to encourage the hopes of all Union men, and we are pleased to observe a great difference in tone on the part of journals which have heretofore been loud in their denunciations of the North and everything therewith connected. Upon the whole, we think that at no time since the beginning of the struggle, have the hopes of Unionists been with reason, so strong, and we trust soon to be able to chronicle the downfall of rebellion and the acknowledged defeat of its leaders, aiders and abettors.

In a bad fix.—Two wealthy young men of Farmington, N. Y., stepped over into Canada, just before the 6th of September, to await the eventualities of the draft. One of them was drawn, and set about hiring a Canadian substitute. He engaged his man, and was ready to leave with him when the authorities, who had been apprised of his proceedings, arrested him on the charge of violating the law against foreign enlistments. He was tried, found guilty, and sentenced to a term of eighteen years' imprisonment!

An Old Enemy.—Vice-Admiral Morier, of the British navy, died recently, after having seen much service. The only part of his career interesting to Americans, is that when he took part in the bombardment of Stonington, in 1814, he and his comrades were compelled to withdraw after sustaining considerable loss. The cannon which repulsed the ships are now to be seen at Stonington.—Stonington.

BY PACIFIC TELEGRAPH.

[SPECIAL TO THE DAILY UNION VEDETTE.]

Washington, Nov. 20th.

The mail steamer from City Point reports heavy artillery and musketry firing yesterday morning on the north side of the James, in the vicinity of Dutch Gap. Gunboats are also supposed to be at work. Firing had nearly ceased at 7 o'clock. No particulars are received.

New York, Nov. 30th.

The Post's special says: Richmond papers of Monday are silent respecting Sherman's movements; they show the rebels to be in great trepidation. There is every reason to believe that Sherman is making his way triumphantly to the coast.

The Herald's army of the Potomac correspondent of the 28th, says: There was more firing than usual on the 27th. In the evening the rebels fired from an advanced point on their new line just beyond the famous Bermuda Hundred tower. Our gunboats replied. On the morning of the 28th quite a brisk musketry fire took place, but no battle ensued. Rebel deserters report Ewell's corps having gone south. Throughout all the 27th the firing on Dutch Gap was uncommonly heavy and persistent, but no damage was done.

By a steamer from Fort Morgan we have late advices from the Gulf. Five of our gunboats lie in Mobile Bay, only three miles from the city. The rebels have important earthworks a little below the city.

At Bagdad, on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande, an expeditionary Union force under Lieut. Col. Sterling, captured a company of rebels, and a number of small arms at Barren Bridge.

Havana, Nov. 25th.

The British steamer Solent left for Vera Cruz yesterday. Among the passengers is Baron Wettereadt, Minister from Sweden at Washington, who goes to Mexico to officially recognize the Empire. The new British Consul for Cuba, Mr. Bunch, arrived yesterday.

A rumor says 7,000 Dominicans captured St. Domingo city after overpowering the garrison.

Newbern, N. C., Nov 27th.

It is reported that all the available rebel forces at Wilmington and other points in this State are moving to the assistance of Georgia.

Gen. Bragg is assigned to the Department of North Carolina, which constitutes his command.

Rebel papers in this State report the abandonment of the Wilmington expedition by the Union forces, which appears to give them great relief.

Governor Vance is figuring for admission into the rebel Senate, with the prospect of success.

New York, Nov. 30th.

The North Star, from Aspinwall, brings California dates to the 3d.

New York, Nov. 30th.

Capt. Hall, of the arctic expedition, has been heard from. On the 27th of August Capt. Hall was at Rowes Welcome, bound up. The vessels from Hudsons Bay were all in for this year. No further tidings are expected till September. The Monticello will winter at Two Brothers Bay, north of Chesterfield. The Inlet schooner at Marble Island.

The Post contains a long article on blockade running from Nassau, and says: Vessels which clear from New York for Havana, put into Nassau under the plea of distress; goods are then landed and shipped on blockade runners. Openly boasted rebels, through the merchants of Nassau, can get what goods they desire from us. Large quantities of pork are being shipped, and Havana is becoming a depot for blockade runners.

Three steamers are in Nassau to run between Havana and Galveston, and large quantities of goods are being sent from New York to Canadian ports and from there to Wilmington.

A Nassau correspondent of the Tribune from the blockading fleet off Wilmington, says: A steamer recently ran the blockade in open day, passing within sight of the whole fleet at anchor.

The Times' Army of the Potomac special says the rebels recently attempted to destroy a portion of our line by damming the bend on a portion of the rebel line, which threatens serious damage.

The military railroad has been extended two miles farther on the left. Lee is building a railroad for the accommodation of his cavalry.

New York, Nov. 30th.

The Herald's Monroe special says the Florida was sunk from an unknown cause; but supposes she sprung a leak in her seams and was weakened by the Wachusetts at the time of capture.

Nothing later from Sherman. No rebel papers have been received within the past twenty-four hours. The very latest rebel intelligence from either column of Sherman's army, placed Slocum's column at Goldsboro on the State railroad, eighty-four miles west of Augusta on the 20th. Howard's column was at Toombsboro, on the Central railroad, one hundred and forty-five miles from Savannah, on the 22d. Both columns had crossed the Ecomulga and Oconee rivers, the two principal streams on the route of the march, and were at the dates mentioned fully half way to Savannah.

The World thinks it is not likely that Lee has sent a large force to Georgia, and says the rebels must rely on levies being called out by Governor Brown, of Georgia, and Governor Bonham, of S. C., to reinforce the troops which have probably reached Augusta from the garrisons at Savannah, Charleston and Wilmington.

Washington, Nov. 30th.

An official report to the Navy Department shows that extraordinary efforts were made by the Atlanta as well as by those on board the Florida to save the latter vessel. It was only when the impossibility of preventing her from sinking became apparent that further attempts were abandoned.

Nashville, Nov. 30th.

Five hundred rebel cavalry crossed the Chattanooga road near Laverage last night, fifteen miles south of Nashville. The garrison of Shelbyvilly was attacked by the rebel cavalry on Monday. After some severe skirmishing the rebels retreated.

Skirmishing is of daily occurrence. No change in Hood's position. In every skirmish so far the Federals appear to have had the advantage.

Our forces have evacuated Shelbyville. It is now in the hands of the rebels. Opinion is rife as to Hood's movements. Preparations are being made to defend Nashville, should he attempt its capture.

New York, Nov. 30th.

The World's army of the Potomac correspondent in speaking of the capture of Roger A. Pryor, says: Pryor appears very sanguine of the ultimate success of the rebellion and ridicules the idea of our putting faith in the statements of deserters and refugees. He does appear to be much cast down by his present misfortune, but regards the means used to secure his capture as not strictly in accordance with the code of honor, and as more particularly severe in his case, as he had used his influence to secure the release of Burbridge and prevent the recurrence of such captures by the rebels. He contends that the election of Lincoln is just what the south wished, and although apprehensive it may prolong the war another four years, he declares it has united their people and rendered the probabilities of their ultimate success much greater. He would give no information about Sherman or the operations in the Shenandoah valley, and feels indisposed to converse on any subject connected with army movements.

The Times' special says: Hood's movements in Tennessee seem to reveal the intention of making his way in East Tennessee. The line on which he is moving would indicate an attempt to turn Nashville on the east side and make his way to and form a junction with Breckinridge. It is believed he will then essay the capture of Knoxville, which will give him a railroad communication via East Tennessee and valley with Lynchburg and Richmond. The successful issue of Sherman's movements will have severed the communication between the two rebel armies, and Hood's present campaign seems to be directed towards securing such communication by the time mentioned. Hoods army in this case, would be in a position to join Lee's should this move become advisable.

Halifax, Nov. 29th.

The Delta arrived from Bermuda the 26th. The pirate Chickamauga arrived at Wilmington after a slight brush with the blockade. The Tallahassee is safely in port, and would leave in a few days with a cargo of cotton for Bermuda. There were no blockade runners at Nassau on the 12th.

Washington, Nov. 30.

Subscriptions to the 7:30 loan for the past two weeks, amount to $3,500,000.

Some recently exchanged prisoners from Savannah state that the people there intimated that forces under Beauregard and Johnson are at Macon to oppose Sherman, but did'nt believe he would encounter them, as the military authorities would decide in time where to concentrate their forces. There were only 1,500 men at Savannah. The Savannah Republican of the 24th contains contradictory statements as to Sherman's movements. It says the column operating on the Georgia road kept the western side and struck off in the direction of Macon, as though contemplating a junction with the forces in that vicinity. It also states a strong force of cavalry is following Sherman, and it is not impossible that Forrest may ere long hang like a wolf on his rear and flanks.

New York, Dec. 1st.

The Richmond Dispatch of the 28th says: Georgia papers publish a great deal about Sherman's movements and nearly as much about our own, all of which would be imprudent to copy. It was pretty well ascertained that the left wing of Sherman's army when it reached Madison numbered 16,000. They burned the town when they left.

Augusta papers shows the excitement in that city a week ago Monday, to be very great, and as in urgent need for troops and it was proposed to impress negroes. One paper in that place was very fearful of treachery on the part of citizens on Sherman's arrival, and the importance to the Confederacy of Macon and Augusta, is dwelt upon at length by the rebel press, and that their fall would, it is admitted, be a great disaster. The Richmond Whig derives some comfort from the assertion which it strives to believe true, that Sherman is only marching, on an average, seven miles a day.

The Richmond Enquirer of the 28th says: On Thursday last a serious attempt was made by the Federal prisoners confined at Salisbury, N. C., to make their escape, which was rapidly and effectually foiled at the expense of considerable Yankee blood. A plot was formed by the prisoners at Salisbury, of whom there are some 12,000, to overpower the interior guard of the encampment, and then break through the line of the parapet guard, and after securing all the arms they could, to march through western North Carolina into Tennessee, and make good their escape. In the first part of their programme they succeeded in intercepting the guard, which was overpowered and two unfortunate men killed, while resisting. They then attacked the parapet guard, who fought bravely against terrible odds until the alarm was fully communicated to the garrison, and two pieces of artillery were thrown into position bearing on the encampment. Two of the parapet guard were killed. In good time the artillery opened, and after a few rakes dispersed [illegible] and cannister, the insurrectionists [illegible] out for mercy and declared they would make no further effort to get away. By this time they were completely [illegible] ded by artillery, infantry, etc. It was well for them they ceased their demonstrations and sued for mercy, for in ten minutes more the whole camp would have been one scene of slaughter. As it was, about 40 were killed and a large number wounded. This very foolish attempt to escape from the Confederacy ended.

New York, Nov. 31.

Herald's Orleans correspondent gives a brief account of a brilliant affair in Louisiana. Gen. A. J. Lee, commanding the Union forces at Baton Rouge returned to that point on the 22d ult. from the expedition to Liberty and Brookville, bringing three pieces of artillery and between 7 and 800 horses and mules and 200 prisoners, including the entire staff of Gen. Hodge, all of which were captured after a spirited engagement with the enemy. It is reported a large portion of Magruder's army are endeavoring to effect a crossing of the Mississippi, in order to reinforce Hood in Tennessee, but the Union troops and gunboats are on the watch and will prevent it if possible.

New York, Dec. 1st.

Major-General Gilmore left to day for New Orleans, where he will report to Gen. Canby for the purpose of inspecting the defenses and the various fortified posts in the western military divisions.

The Herald's correspondent at the City of Mexico, writing on the 31st Oct., represents the condition of the country under the Imperial regime as very deplorable, commerce is stagnant and agricultural operations have been so much interrupted by continued warfare, brigandage, murder, robbery, throughout almost the entire Mexican territory, during the past two years, that the most necessary articles are in the greatest scarcity, and many of the people are said to be dying with starvation in the cities of Mexico and San Luis.

According to the World's Fortress Monroe correspondent the Florida had been ordered to Norfolk to coal, but just before starting she was run into by the transport Alliance and very seriously damaged. She was in a very bad condition when captured, and her steam pump was kept going constantly. After this last collision she filled at the rate of eight inches an hour, and an additional pump was set at work and every effort to keep her afloat, but still to no purpose, and before she could be towed to shoal water she went down.

Richmond papers of the 28th say that, General Grant is massing troops on his left, and if the weather continues favorable may make another effort in that direction. The city was filled with rumors last night that Grant's forces in conjunction with the Navy were moving on Richmond, and that the fleet had passed up Dutch Gap canal, and that an important movement was making in the Shenandoah Valley, but nothing was received confirmatory of these reports this morning.

The Tribune's Washington special says Judge Holt has been selected to succeed Attorney General Bates.

Nashville, Nov. 30th.

The army movement for the few days past, has been simply for a position. The Federal forces have not retreated, except to improved locations. We occupy Franklin to-day, but will probably select a battle field much nearer Nashville. Skirmishing occurred with little or no advantage to either side, and the probabilities are that a battle will be fought within the next 48 hours. Our forces are in eager expectation, and our generals are hopeful and confident. Large accessions of troops reached here who have sent to advantagous positions. Lovell's detachment of rebel cavalry are operating not far from Nashville, doing however, no great damage. The railroad communication with Chattanooga is intact, and trains are running regularly. There is much excitement among the citizens on account of the near approach of Hood's army. Major A. J. Smith's corps reached here to-night.

Oil in Kansas.—An abundance of oil, possessing all the qualities of the Oil City petroleum, is found along a stream called Wea Creek, which runs through Miami county, Kansas. It is said to be better lubricating oil than the Alleghany petroleum, and so plenty as to be easily gathered from the top of standing puddles of water.

Local Matters.

☞ The Metropolitan Minstrels gave a performance at the Camp Theater on Wednesday evening which met with the approval of a large and appreciative house. We can truly recommend them to patronage, and earnestly say that it was the best entertainment of "negro minstrely" ever given at Camp Douglas. One needs but to go to laugh, and one cannot witness or listen to them and not laugh. The favorite Billy Shepperd was better, if possible, than ever—his essence of the "Old Virginny" dance we never saw equalled either in California or the East. Tommy Briggs is an excellent addition to the Troupe, and bids fair to compete with Billy, and the left end man "G-e-e-m-e-s" is not to be overlooked. This new Troupe have made well their debut, and cannot fail of being sustained.

☞ Idaho Lodge, No. 1., I. O. G. T., located at Camp Connor by the soldiers of this command stationed at that Post, is in full tide of prosperity. Below is a list of the officers elected for the present quarter: Sergt. Wm. Smith, W. C. T.; Jane Smith, W. V. T.: Jones H. Ingersoll, W. S.; Wm. S. Raymond, W. F. S.; Marshall M. Turley, W. T.; Emma Thompson, W. M.; Chas. H. Shuter, W. I. G.; Arthur Fleming. W. O. G.; Emma Chappel. W. R. H. S.; Mary Durkey. W. H. S.; Edward Lavelle, W. C.; Elizabeth Johnson. W. D. M.

☞ A meeting of Odd Fellows is called for this evening at the Q. M. office for the purpose of considering the practicability of establishing a Lodge in this vicinity.

☞ Capt Dalton, Nevada Territory Volunteers, has a new Concord coach for sale.

WHAT IS A COPPERHEAD?—The New York Times gives the following definition of the genus Copperhead:

The Copperhead glories in being afraid. He flaunts his cowardice and imbecility under the nose of the whole civilized world. He confesses with pride that the slaveholders have beaten him and cowed him. He acknowledges that it is pure fear which makes him give them all they ask, and glories in it. He tells you with a chuckle what Davis wants, and what Lee will have, and what Beauregard won't go without; and calls on his neighbors and friends with all the smiling zeal of a London flunky sent down stairs for his master's boots, to hand it over immediately. He will parade his shame on platforms every night in the week, and call it wisdom, and invoke the divine blessings on it. When you talk to him of self-respect, he hears you with the air of a Turk listening to a disquisition on habeas corpus.

He glories in having no country, except it be the little community called a State, which, however, he passes most of his time in abusing, depreciating, and comparing disadvantageously with South Carolina or Mississippi. He belongs to no order or race of men. He gathers to himself the base and degraded of every breed or country, and is never so much at home as amid the ignorant and degraded portion of the foreign immigrants. It is his special delight that he has no flag. He abhors the Stars and Stripes, and is always delighted when it is dishonored or humiliated; the Confederate flag he rather admires and is proud of, but it does not belong to him. He has one quality in common with the negro, one which, more than aught else, has contributed to the degradation of this unfortunate race—it is impossible to insult him or arouse in him any feelings of resentment. You will find him in Paris and London, skulking around hotels frequented by Southerners, denying or concealing his Northern birth, or, if he owns it, abusing and ridiculing his native place, denying his own Government to foreigners, who are sickened by his want of shame, gloating over the defeat of his neighbors, and predicting their ruin and confusion. You find him at home, stumping the country in the interests of men who tell him that they must "hold their noses" when they talk with him, pandering to the base passions of the "baser sort," playing on all that is selfish, short-sighted and degraded in human nature, the love of money, the love of ease, the indifference to all moral ends or aims or consequences—always the very incarnation of that gross and foul materialism which made good and wise men everywhere, before this war, shake their heads sadly over the aspect of our civilization.

GOOD.—A loyal woman has written an able paper on the crisis, in which she protests against killing off all the men. She says: "I do not believe in fighting for the country and the flag to the last man;" and it seems to me anybody is an idiot who talks such nonsense. What would the country be to me or any other woman if the "last man" was gone?
